The magazine aqua press International covers all aspects of water management in the Danube Region. It seeks to be a source of information to decisionmakers in planning, administration, politics and economy in all Danube riparian countries, helping to protect the natural eco-systems in these countries and to foster the mutual exchange of water-related information and collaboration between these countries in the areas of economy, science, technology, politics and art.

The quarterly magazine aqua press International – water management in the Danube Region" is published in German and English language and covers all topics related to water supply, wastewater treatment, hydroengineering, ecology, science, and research.

aqua press International is supported by the Internet portal www.aquamedia.at, which is provided in English language.
